Response (09/17/2025 10:21 CST)
Hi Osama,
Thank you for verifying your identity. A temporary restriction was placed on your account because we suspected someone else may be using your account. We know your account is important to you. This restriction prevented access to your account as we reviewed this issue.
I am happy to share I have removed the restriction from your LinkedIn account and taken the following steps to secure it:

- Your account has been signed out on all devices.
- A password reset link has been sent to your primary email address.
 - Please access this link and update your password within the next 24 hours. If it's been more than 24 hours, let us know and we will send over a new one.
 - Please note that if the name associated with your account has been changed by the unauthorized third party, you may receive the email in a different recipient's name.
- After the restriction is lifted, it might take up to 48 hours for your connections and followers to be fully restored.

Once you successfully access your account, I recommend taking these steps to ensure your information is correct as it may have been modified during this incident:

1. Review your profile information and settings.

- Please be aware that if any of your information was removed or changed during this incident, you may need to edit your profile to restore the correct content. We will do our best to retain your previous profile information.

We successfully helped a client regain access to their LinkedIn account after it was temporarily restricted due to a policy violation.
